

TRAINING

LABOR MARKET INFORMATION

Join us at the LMI training, choose one of nine locations across the state.

This 1.5-day training will introduce key data sources and tools used to support state and regional economic development strategies. Through engaging discussions and hands-on exercises, participants will gain exposure to a variety of economic, demographic, and workplace data. As well as apply basic analytical skills to address real-world situations that job seekers, business owners, and workforce development members frequently encounter. The agenda will revolve around three scenarios that workforce professionals face daily.
